Learner Terms & Conditions

Professional Development Programmes,
Scholarship Support and Direct Debit Payments

Read-only terms

Read these Terms before accepting your place.

Acceptance is recorded separately through IPC's approved website form.

This PDF has no signature or editable acceptance page.

00 / Terms & Conditions

About these Terms

These Terms explain the agreement between the Institute of Project Controls (IPC) and a learner who accepts a professional development place, including a scholarship-supported place and an agreed Direct Debit Payment Schedule.

Document status

This is a read-only Terms & Conditions document. The learner accepts it through IPC's approved website form. There is no signature page and no editable acceptance page in this PDF.

What forms the Agreement

The Programme Offer, Scholarship Award Letter, Direct Debit Payment Schedule, these Terms, the Privacy Notice and any policy expressly incorporated in writing.

When it becomes binding

Normally when IPC confirms the place in writing and the learner completes the Website Acceptance Form. Mandatory statutory cancellation rights continue to apply.

Key principle - specific written terms control

Do not rely on an informal conversation about the Programme, scholarship percentage or payment timing. The Programme Offer, Scholarship Award Letter and Direct Debit Payment Schedule must record the final agreed details. If a specific written term conflicts with a general term in this document, the specific written term takes priority to the extent of that conflict, provided it is lawful.

01 / Terms & Conditions

Programme Scope, Module Options and Delivery

The Programme Offer identifies the Participant's selected Module, Package or Pathway and the delivery and assessment arrangements that apply.

- | | |
|------------|--|
| 1.1 | Programme-specific information
The Programme Offer must state the Programme title, selected Module or Package, start information, expected completion date, duration, delivery model, assessment requirements, inclusions and any Accreditation Body qualification or examination. |
| 1.2 | Delivery arrangements
Learning is mainly delivered online. Optional face-to-face workshops are offered where scheduled. Dates, session times, platforms, tutors, locations and joining information are communicated through the timetable, learner portal or another official IPC channel. |
| 1.3 | Module Options
Individual Module Options include AI, PMI-SP, EVM, Risk, PMO, PPC, MSP and Managing Portfolios. The Participant may choose one or more modules and build the portfolio they want. Each selected module is assessed separately. |
| 1.4 | More than one individual module
Learners may choose more than one individual module. Each individual module costs after IPC fund will be £2,000. |
| 1.5 | Outcomes and Accreditation Bodies
IPC does not guarantee employment, promotion, salary progression, professional status, examination success or certification. Where an assessment, examination, membership or credential is controlled by an Accreditation Body, the Participant must satisfy that body's rules and the Accreditation Body remains responsible for its decisions. |
| 1.6 | Reasonable programme changes
IPC can make reasonable changes to sequencing, tutors, dates, delivery platforms, examples, resources or assessment administration to maintain quality or respond to operational requirements. Material changes are communicated through an official IPC channel. |

What the Programme includes

Unless the Programme Offer states otherwise, the Programme includes:

- Live or scheduled learning sessions
- Tutor support
- Learning materials and Programme resources
- Assessment support
- Professional guidance
- Professional certification or recognition, where included in the selected Programme
- Access to professional-development activities, events and resources specified in the Programme Offer

Included where applicable

Accreditation Body examination fees, professional memberships, travel and accommodation are included only where the Programme Offer expressly confirms that inclusion. Where an examination is required, the Programme Offer will confirm whether the initial examination fee is included. If a Participant does not pass the examination, resit fees will not be funded by IPC.

02 / Terms & Conditions

Participant Commitments, Conduct and Online Learning

A professional-development place requires consistent engagement, honest work, respectful conduct and timely communication.

- | | |
|-----|---|
| 2.1 | Attendance and engagement
The Participant must make reasonable efforts to attend scheduled learning, participate professionally, complete required activities and respond to progress communications. |
| 2.2 | Absence and communication
If attendance or progress is affected, the Participant must notify IPC as soon as reasonably possible and complete any available catch-up or agreed alternative activity. |
| 2.3 | Academic integrity
Submitted work must be the Participant's own except where collaboration is expressly permitted. Plagiarism, fabricated evidence, impersonation, unauthorised assistance and submission of another person's work are prohibited. |
| 2.4 | Responsible use of AI
AI tools may be used only where IPC and the assessment rules permit. The Participant remains responsible for accuracy, originality, professional judgement and disclosure of material AI assistance when requested. Confidential workplace information, Personal Data and restricted IPC Materials must not be uploaded to public AI services without permission. |
| 2.5 | Professional conduct
The Participant must treat tutors, staff, speakers, other learners and partners with dignity and respect. Harassment, discrimination, bullying, threatening behaviour, deliberate disruption, dishonesty or conduct creating a serious safety risk can lead to proportionate action. |
| 2.6 | Online access and recordings
Access credentials and session links are personal. The Participant must not share access, record, copy, stream or publish a session or IPC Materials without IPC's written permission. |
| 2.7 | Workplace and client information
The Participant must obtain any necessary permission before using employer or client information and should remove confidential or identifying details where possible. |
| 2.8 | Safeguarding, wellbeing and health & safety
The Participant must follow reasonable IPC safeguarding, wellbeing, venue, online-safety and equipment instructions and promptly report a serious concern through IPC's published support route. |

03 / Terms & Conditions

Assessment, Certification, Support and Adjustments

Assessment and certification vary by Programme. The Programme Offer identifies the completion requirements that apply.

- | | |
|-----|---|
| 3.1 | Assessment activities
The Programme can include knowledge assessments, practical assignments, professional or reflective activities, presentations, portfolios, examinations or other evidence. |
| 3.2 | Deadlines and adjustments
Work must be submitted in the required format and by the stated deadline unless an extension or reasonable adjustment has been approved in writing. |
| 3.3 | Feedback, reassessment and Accreditation Body rules
Feedback supports development but does not guarantee a result. Resubmission, reassessment, resit or late-registration arrangements are subject to the Programme rules, Accreditation Body rules and any clearly disclosed additional charge. |
| 3.4 | Certification
IPC certification, where included, is issued only after the relevant completion requirements are met and all undisputed sums due have been paid. Accreditation Body qualifications, examinations, memberships or professional recognition remain subject to the relevant body's eligibility, assessment, conduct and fee rules. |
| 3.5 | Professional and learner support
IPC provides tutor guidance, Programme support, feedback, assessment guidance and career-development information. This support does not constitute legal, financial, medical, employment or regulated professional advice. The Participant remains responsible for decisions made in the workplace or career. |
| 3.6 | Accessibility and reasonable adjustments
The Participant should tell IPC as early as possible about a disability, health condition, learning need or other circumstance affecting access or assessment. IPC will consider reasonable and practicable adjustments while preserving the integrity of learning outcomes and Accreditation Body requirements. |

Individual Module

Learners may choose more than one individual module. Each individual module costs after IPC 50% fund will be £2,000. Every selected module is separately assessed and separately confirmed in writing.

Individual Module: an approved Direct Debit plan can extend up to twice the module duration. A 4-month module can therefore use a 8-month plan where confirmed in writing.

Terms & Conditions

Institute of Project Controls

Project Management Professional (PMP): 2 credits. The study period is 8 months. A £400 initial deposit is followed by 16 monthly Direct Debit instalments of £100, giving a total Participant Contribution of £2,000.

Certified PMO Professional: £400 initial deposit followed by 24 monthly Direct Debit instalments of £150, giving a £3,600 balance and a total Participant Contribution of £4,000

Deposit Status: Following the expiry of any applicable statutory cancellation period, the £400 deposit specified in the Payment Schedule will be non-refundable. Any instalments paid will also be non-refundable, subject to any mandatory statutory rights that may apply.

Support is subject to assessment

IPC Scholarship Support is discretionary and depends on assessment, approval, available funds and written confirmation. The percentages shown are not an automatic entitlement and do not create a cash payment to the Participant.

- | | |
|-----|--|
| 4.1 | Scholarship assessment and written award
The Award Letter confirms the approved percentage or amount, the IPC contribution, the Participant Contribution, any conditions that apply and the period for which the support remains valid. Scholarship Support cannot be paid as cash, transferred to another person or exchanged for another benefit. |
| 4.2 | Commercial terms must be confirmed in writing
Before enrolment, the Programme Offer, Award Letter and Direct Debit Payment Schedule must confirm the final award, deposit, monthly instalment, total Participant Contribution and collection dates. Collections are scheduled for the first day of each month unless the written Payment Schedule states another confirmed date. |
| 4.3 | Accreditation and professional qualification funding approval
IPC can provide funding for an accreditation or professional qualification only after assessment, approval, available funding and written confirmation. The confirmation will identify the qualification or accreditation covered, the amount approved, any conditions and the period for which approval remains valid. |
| 4.4 | Direct Debit Instruction
All Participant Contributions, deposits and instalments under the published payment plans must be paid by Direct Debit. Payment by invoice is not an alternative payment method for the Participant Contribution. The Participant must provide and maintain a valid Direct Debit Instruction for the duration of the agreed instalment plan. A change to, or cancellation of, the Direct Debit Instruction does not cancel or change the Agreement or any payment already due under the Payment Schedule. |
| 4.5 | Monthly service fees paid in advance
Each monthly instalment is payable in advance on the collection date shown in the Payment Schedule. During a Programme Month, the payment relates to access to Programme services provided or made available during that month, including teaching, learning materials, systems, assessment and support. Once that Programme Month has started and those services have been made available, the instalment for that month is non-refundable, subject to statutory rights. |
| 4.7 | Failed or overdue collections
If an undisputed Direct Debit collection fails or a payment becomes overdue, IPC can issue reminders and written notice requiring payment. If the account remains overdue for seven calendar days from the date of that notice, IPC can suspend access to teaching, systems, assessments, certification and support until the account is fully up to date. IPC can consider genuine financial difficulty communicated promptly, but any revised arrangement must be confirmed in writing. |
| 4.6 | Payment after Programme completion
Where the Payment Schedule continues beyond the Programme Completion Date, the later instalments are deferred payments of the agreed Participant Contribution for the Programme as a whole. Completing teaching, assessment or certification does not end those remaining instalments, and the Participant must continue paying them until the Payment Schedule is completed. |

05 / Terms & Conditions

Cancellation, Withdrawal, Deferral and Termination

This section explains how participation can end or be paused and how deposits and monthly payments are treated.

5.1 Withdrawal by the Participant

To withdraw, the Participant must give written notice through IPC's published support route sufficiently in advance of the intended withdrawal date. Withdrawal ends future participation and future Scholarship Support. After any applicable Statutory Cancellation Period, the £400 deposit and previous Participant payments are non-refundable. Remaining future Direct Debit instalments stop when the withdrawal becomes effective, but any overdue instalment relating to a Programme Month that has already started remains payable.

5.2 Absence, deferral and transfer

Where circumstances materially affect participation, IPC can consider a reasonable deferral, transfer or revised timetable. Approval is not automatic and can depend on capacity, curriculum changes, Accreditation Body rules, outstanding Fees and additional delivery cost. An approved arrangement must be recorded in writing and does not automatically change the Payment Schedule.

5.3 Suspension or termination by IPC

IPC can suspend or terminate participation for material non-payment, persistent non-engagement, academic misconduct, false information, abusive or unsafe behaviour, misuse of systems or IPC Materials, serious confidentiality or security breach, or another material breach of the Agreement.

5.4 Opportunity to respond

Except where urgent action is reasonably required, IPC will explain the concern and provide a reasonable opportunity for the Participant to respond or remedy the breach. A final decision will be communicated in writing.

5.5 Consequences of ending participation

On withdrawal or termination, access to systems and IPC Materials can end. Undisputed deposits, previous payments and payments relating to a Programme Month already started remain governed by sections 4 and 5.

5.6 Scholarship Support after withdrawal

Future Scholarship Support can cease when participation ends. No automatic retrospective scholarship clawback applies.

06 / Terms & Conditions

Materials, Confidentiality and Personal Data

IPC Materials and confidential information must be used securely and only for the agreed Programme purpose.

6.1 Ownership and use of IPC Materials

All learning materials provided by IPC, including recordings, slides, templates, assessments, systems and supporting resources, remain the property of IPC or its licensors. IPC gives the Participant permission to use these Materials only for their own participation in the Programme and professional development. The Participant must not copy, sell, share, transfer or use the Materials for another purpose without IPC's written permission. IPC can withdraw this permission if the Participant breaches these Terms.

6.2 Confidential information

The Participant and IPC must take reasonable care of confidential information received through the Programme and use it only for the Programme or another authorised purpose. Confidentiality does not prevent disclosure required by law or reasonably necessary to protect a person from serious harm.

6.3 Personal Data and Privacy Notice

IPC processes Personal Data for application review, enrolment, Direct Debit administration, Programme delivery, progress monitoring, assessment, certification, support, safeguarding, security, complaints and legal obligations. The Privacy Notice provides further information about the purposes, retention, rights and contact route.

6.4 Authorised service providers and Accreditation Bodies

Where necessary for delivery or administration, IPC can share relevant Personal Data with tutors, authorised payment and technology providers, Learning Platforms and an Accreditation Body connected with the selected qualification or examination. Sharing must be limited to what is reasonably necessary.

6.5 Security and service communications

IPC will use reasonable technical and organisational measures to protect Personal Data. IPC can send essential Programme, account, Direct Debit, assessment, safety and certification communications. General marketing is not part of these Terms.

07 / Terms & Conditions

Complaints, Notices and General Administration

Concerns should be raised promptly so that IPC has a fair opportunity to review the matter and provide an outcome or next step.

7.1 Complaints and procedural review

The Participant should raise a concern through IPC's published support or complaints route. IPC will acknowledge and review the matter, can request relevant evidence and will provide an outcome or next step. Assessment appeals and scholarship procedural reviews follow the applicable policy.

7.2 Notices, changes and entire agreement

Formal notices can be sent to the most recent postal address or email address provided by the Participant. The Participant is responsible for keeping contact details accurate and up to date and must notify IPC promptly of any change.

7.3 Written changes

A material change to the selected Programme, scholarship outcome or Payment Schedule is effective only when it is confirmed in writing through an updated Programme Offer, Award Letter, Payment Schedule or other durable IPC record.

7.4 Online acceptance

This PDF is read-only. Acceptance is recorded separately through IPC's approved Website Acceptance Form. The Participant should retain a copy of the accepted Programme Offer, Award Letter, Payment Schedule and these Terms.
